DIVISION OF RESTORATIVE SCIENCES

The Herman Ostrow School of Dentistry of USC invites applicants for a full-time, non-tenure-track faculty position at the rank of Assistant Professor of Clinical Dentistry in the Division of Restorative Sciences.

The ideal candidate should have a DDS/DMD degree and be licensed in the State of California or eligible for California licensure. Preference will be given to candidates with experience in didactic and clinical teaching in multidisciplinary diagnosis and treatment planning and clinical management of dental students and dental patients.

The successful candidate will be expected to function as a Group Practice Director (GPD), participate in didactic and clinical teaching in the predoctoral and advanced specialty programs, and lead efforts in the development and teaching of comprehensive dental treatment in collaboration with the disciplines of oral medicine, oral pathology, periodontology, oral radiology and restorative dentistry. As a GPD, this individual is expected to serve as a leader, mentor and role model for predoctoral DDS students in the clinical environment and to monitor and supervise the progress and clinical accomplishments of the students. The GPD is responsible for the oral health care and treatment of all patients assigned to the group practice.

Interested applicants should submit a cover letter, complete curriculum vitae, and arrange to have a minimum of three letters of reference sent to:
