DIVISION OF DENTAL PUBLIC HEALTH & PEDIATRIC DENTISTRY

The Herman Ostrow School of Dentistry of USC seeks applicants for a full-time, non-tenure track position at the rank of assistant professor of clinical dentistry in the Division of Dental Public Health and Pediatric Dentistry.

Responsibilities include providing clinical care to underserved children at an off-site dental clinic and teaching at the predoctoral and postdoctoral levels as part of a large community project focusing on improving the oral health of children ages 0 to five.

Candidates must have a DDS or DMD degree, be licensed to practice dentistry in the State of California, have a Certificate of Specialization in Pediatric Dentistry, and PALS certification. Past experience in caring for children 0 to 5 years of age, special needs and underserved patients in outpatient settings and the OR is required. Candidates with additional training and experience in community oral health are strongly encouraged to apply.

Interested applicants should submit a cover letter, complete curriculum vitae, and arrange to have at least three letters of reference sent to:
